

Leicestershire garden centres offering a home delivery service during lockdown

Many of us are spending a lot of time in our gardens right now

If you're lucky enough to have a garden or outside space, no matter what the size, then you're probably appreciating it more than ever right now.

With the lockdown in place, many of us are spending a lot of time in our own little bits of the outdoors, and growing things can be an enjoyable, calming experience in this period of uncertainty.

Although a lot of local garden centres and nurseries have temporarily closed due to coronavirus, many are providing deliveries.

You could order some seeds and supplement your food supply by growing your own vegetables and salad, and you could fill your garden with some colourful plants, too.

Here are the Leicestershire garden centres that are currently offering a delivery service:

Langton Greenhouse and Garden Centre, East Langton

A wide range of plants, seeds, plant food, compost, fertilisers, tools and gardening gifts are all available for free delivery within a 10 mile radius of the garden centre, when you spend more than £40.

Orders for gardening products can be placed by calling 07889068718. If there is no reply, you can send orders to gardencentre@langtongreenhouse.co.uk.

This garden centre also has a food store, which is offering delivery and contactless collection. Items include veg boxes, bread, milk and other dairy products.

Glebe Garden Centre by Cherry Lane, Countesthorpe

Along with all Cherry Lane branches, this Countesthorpe garden centre is closed, but you can still place orders via the website.

There's a range of gardening products that can be delivered to your door.

Ken Bailey at Wistow

This rural garden centre is now offering a delivery service.

There's a range of items from plants to pots, with up to date information being posted on the Facebook page. If you'd like anything specific, you can email: info@kenbaileywistow.com
