Apparently random attacks were made on cars parked in several villages

This Jeep was attacked in South Kilworth, near Lutterworth

Vandals have caused thousands of pounds' worth of damage during a car window-smashing spree in south Leicestershire villages.

The apparently random attacks on cars parked in several villages, mainly in the Lutterworth area, took place either late on Saturday night or the early hours of yesterday.

People living in South Kilworth, Ashby Parva, Upper Bruntingthorpe, Kimcote, Walcote, Leire, Dunton Bassett, Gilmorton and Walton woke to discover smashed windows. Damage was caused to both front and rear windscreens.

One post, on the Spotted Lutterworth Town Facebook page said: "About 30 cars had their car windows smashed last night. Walton, Gilmorton Kimcote, Bruntingthorpe and more."

One villager told Leicestershire Live: "I live in Walton and woke up to my rear window being smashed.

"It seemed to occur between the hours of 4am and 5am.

"They seemed to hit any car facing towards Lutterworth and I know around four others at the top of the village were hit.

"Several passers-by came to speak to me as I was clearing the mess up.

"I have two children's seats in the car and this didn't deter them."

A Leicestershire Police spokeswoman said the force was called on Sunday morning about a rear window of a car being smashed while parked in Hall Lane, Walton, near Lutterworth.

"It is reported to have happened between 3.30am and 9am on the morning of 5 January," she added.

"We also received a report of a rear window being smashed in Mere Road, Upper Bruntingthorpe.

"It was reported on Sunday morning, to have happened at around 8pm on Saturday evening.

"No arrests have been made."

Anyone with information is asked to call 101.
